

Greenhouse Gases and Health Impacts on Food

Friday, April 17th
10:45AM-12:00PM

Institute for Food, Nutrition and Health Room 101

Dr. Rebecca Boehm

Economist,

Union of Concerned Scientists

Food and Environmental Program

Biography: Dr. Rebecca Boehm is an economist with the Food & Environment program at the Union of Concerned Scientists. In her role, she conducts applied economic research to advance the development of a healthier, more sustainable, and equitable food system. Prior to joining UCS, Dr. Boehm was a postdoctoral fellow at the Rudd Center for Food Policy and Obesity at the University of Connecticut, with a joint appointment in the UConn Agricultural and Resources Economics Department's Zwick Center for Food and Resource Policy. Her research has focused on understanding the implications of food choices for climate mitigation and adaptation, evaluating federal nutrition programs including the Food Insecurity Nutrition Incentive program, and assessing public health interventions to encourages healthy eating among children. Her research has been published in various journals including Climate, Food Policy, Journal of Nutrition Education Behavior, and Public Health Nutrition.

For more information about Dr. Boehm, parking, and the REI Seminar Series:
http://bit.ly/REI_seminar-series or scan the QR code to the left.

Follow REI
on Twitter

Save the Date: May 6th, 2020

15th Annual Energy Symposium: Decarbonizing the Energy Sector by 2050